Summer Resident of East Storcham

The death of Dr. Oliver C. Farrington occurred Thursday, November 11, 1921, at Billings' Memorial Hospital in Billings at the age of 69 years.

Dr. Farrington was one of the leading authorities on the geology of the region and gem minerals. His "Gem Territories" is a standard authority on its field, as is his work on gem and gem minerals. He was also the author of other books and articles.

Joining the museum staff in 1902, after its founding, Dr. Farrington was the "dean" of the institution for many years. After taking degrees at Montana State college and Yale university he was a member of the faculty at Montana State. He was with the United States National museum, before coming to the
